Course objectives	The objective of the course is to familiarize students with the conditions and flows of the formation and development of liturgical practice and its theology within the frames of our Local Church, to compare this knowledge with other practices of the Orthodox Local Churches and to learn how to properly understand and perform worship.
Learning outcomes	Possession of academic competencies necessary for carrying out and understanding of Church service.
Course content
Lectures	Getting to know the modern liturgical tradition of the Serbian Orthodox Church; Comparative analysis of modern liturgical traditions of other Local Orthodox Churches; Study of the historical development of the modern worship of the SOC, the factors and conditions that led to its formation, change and development; Acquiring the necessary theoretical knowledge at the level of ritualistics, theology of worship and understanding of them as the history of the cult itself; Theoretical training of candidates for active and successful performance of worship service.
Practical classes (exercises, additional forms of classes, research work)	Due to the specific nature of the Faculty in the system of teaching, on the basis of the Statute, special forms of teaching are included, pastoral-cathehetic and practical-liturgical practice. Practical classes include work on manuscript collections of museums and libraries, study tours and excursions. Additional forms of teaching also take place - church-worship practice with the aim of giving specific competences.
